To: Board of Regents
From: Board Office
Subject: Naming of the Veterinary Medicine Teaching Hospital, ISU
Date: June 7, 2004

Recommended Action:

Approve Iowa State University's request to name the Veterinary Teaching Hospital as the Dr. Eugene and Linda Lloyd Teaching Hospital.

Executive Summary:

$3.5 Million Gift Iowa State University requests approval to name the Veterinary Teaching Hospital as the Dr. Eugene and Linda Lloyd Teaching Hospital in honor of Dr. Eugene and Linda Lloyd of Fort Myers, Florida. Gene and his wife, Linda, made a lead gift of $3.5 million, providing one-half of the private gift goal for the project. The gift is the largest ever to the College of Veterinary Medicine.

ISU Graduate Gene Lloyd graduated with two degrees from the College of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa State University – a DVM in 1949 and Ph.D. in 1970. From 1974 to 1984, he was a professor of veterinary pathology at the College. He is founder, chairman and CEO of Lloyd, Inc., a company located in Shenandoah, Iowa, that develops and manufactures pharmaceutical and nutritional products for animals and humans, which are distributed through veterinarians and druggists. The Lloyds have been generous contributors to Iowa State University and the College of Veterinary Medicine throughout the years, and it is appropriate and fitting to recognize this major gift with a commemorative naming opportunity.

For their contributions to build a better future for the Veterinary Teaching Hospital at Iowa State University, it is requested that this facility be named the Dr. Eugene and Linda Lloyd Teaching Hospital.
